[Special Correspondence of THE TRIBUNE.]

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—The following letter, sent by W. H. Vanderbilt and James H. Rogers to David Dows, Samuel F. Hoyt and E. D. Morgan, is regarded by many persons as involving a sort famous case in the history of the Chicago, South Side Railway Company:

NEW YORK, March 25, 1884.—GENTLEMEN: Some of the shareholders of the Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis Railway Company have recently been called on by agents of parties, apparently dealers of the Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis Railway Company, to purchase their shares of stock in that company. We understand that the agents have been instructed to offer for the shares of stock in that company a price which is considerably less than the value which we put upon them, but even that price has been offered to very few of the shareholders. We, therefore, think it proper to inform you that we have been informed

A PARLIAMENTARY CRISIS!

LONDON AND THE PRUSSIAN BILL.

LONDON, March 16.—[Special Cable Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.]—The most important political movement that has been made since the re-opening of Parliament was made this evening in a private political banquet by the Marquis of Salisbury, the leader of the Conservative party in the House of Lords. He announced that the Peers had definitely decided to reject the bill for the extension of the franchise in the counties, which is the great measure upon which Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues have staked their political fortunes. The Marquis mentioned that the failure of the great measure upon which the Government had relied to get the vote which their creation transferring the taxing power for radical boroughs would doubtless lead to a dissolution of Parliament, and that the country after the House of Lords indicated to bring about. The country then believed, was not only heavily taxed but thoroughly disgusted with Gladstone, as would be proved shortly above at the general election. The writer for this creation, he said, would be armed with all possible moral, as well as to have as possible a House of Commons freely from the hands of a Tories, by himself, would take upon a date and Government. Lord, writes, Lord and unknown members of foreign affairs, such as would restore the position of British arms and British diplomacy as solely won by Cobden and predecessors, but as surely superior by the present one.

It is impossible to overestimate the significance and importance of such a statement as this coming from the calmest statesman who was Lord Derby's Secretary for India and the leading member of Lord Beaconsfield's Cabinet, who is the honestly elected leader of the Conservatives, and who is everywhere looked upon as the successor to Gladstone in the not far-distant event of a Conservative victory.

The Nonpareil Velveteen

Received the only Medal awarded at the recent International Exhibition at Amsterdam (Holland).

There are now several brands of Velveteens in imitation of the "Nonpareil," but the "Nonpareil" is by far the most evenly and thoroughly dyed, and, through a secret process in the dyeing, holds its color and nap until completely worn out, measuring, instead of losing, its fabric and "sheen" with wear, and is the only Velveteen with the genuine Lyons dye, and, consequently, the only real substitute for Silk Velvet. Ours can be shown, that were made up and placed on our figures three years ago. These have been exposed to constant heat, as well as strong light continuously, and do not yet show signs of fading. So great is the improvement in the "Nonpareil," that even the most delicate hues are being used for evening dresses. The "Nonpareil" is warranted both by the importers as well as retailers, so that it is the safest to buy for any purpose.

Be sure to have our Trade Mark stamped on the back of every yard cut.

Miss Mary Anderson & Madame Sarah Bernhardt

Wear Dresses made of the Nonpareil Velveteen, and write as below regarding it:

"The Nonpareil Velveteen is indeed beautiful in color and texture."
